MANUFACTURING NOBLE FIBRES SINCE 1808

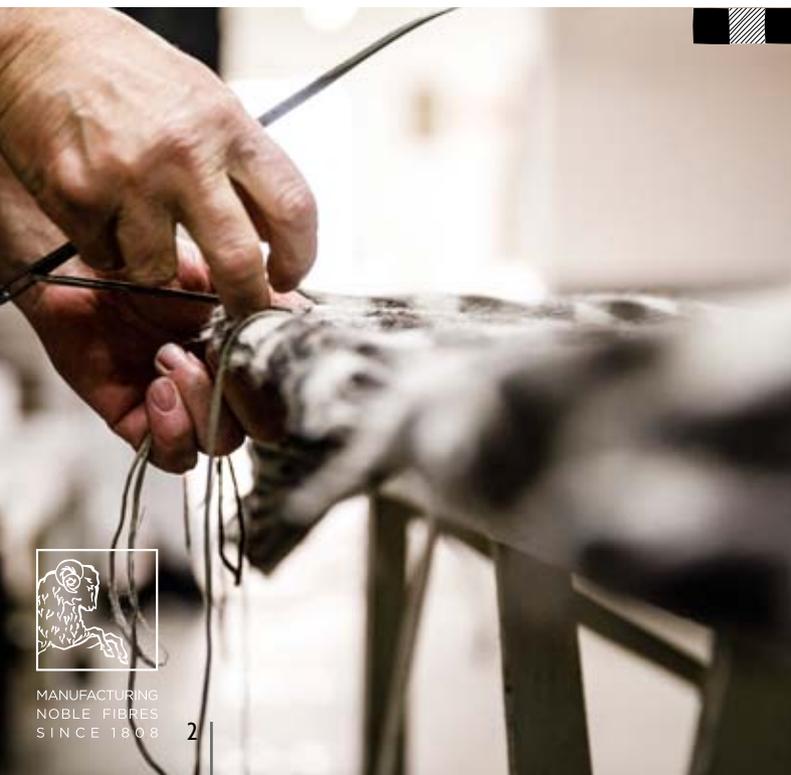

Since its foundation under the First Empire, Brun de Vian-Tiran has been pursuing its dedication to combining rigorous selection and a constant search for the most beautiful natural fibres in the world, with design inspired by nature and inventive manufacturing. Your daily life can thus be enhanced by totally authentic softness, reflecting the gentle lifestyle of the ancient town which saw the beginnings of the company and where it continues to thrive today: Isle-sur-la-Sorgue, in Provence.

BRUN DE VIAN-TIRAN A NAME, A HISTORY

In 1808, Charles Tiran joined his son-in-law, Laurent Vian, in creating a fulling mill on the banks of the Sorgue River. Two generations later, Emile Brun married Laurent's granddaughter and the company was renamed Brun de Vian-Tiran.

Eight generations and more than 200 years later, their direct descendants, Pierre Brun and his son Jean-Louis, are continuing the adventure. Worker families, true craftsmen and women with a deep love of noble fibres, have also accompanied the factory through several generations. Brun de Vian-Tiran, like the elegance and natural refinement of our fabrics, is timeless.

8 GENERATIONS OF INNOVATION, TWO DEDICATED MANAGERS

Pierre Brun, a textile engineer with fifty years of rich experience, working with his wool merchant friend Claude Gutapfel, rediscovered and built up the herds of very special Merino sheep which produce the finest wool in Europe: the trademarked Mérinos d'Arles Antique®. He also invented and perfected a metal teasel which is unique in the world to create the fluffiness of his fabrics, and has preserved the fifteen specialized skills necessary for the preparation of these marvels in France.

"In our company, true progress is based on tradition."

Pierre Brun, 7th generation

Agronomist, oenologist and PhD in Cognitive Sciences, Jean-Louis Brun first expressed his love for materials, know-how and travel while making fine wines on three different continents. Today he has committed Brun de Vian-Tiran not just to international co-operation research projects into rare materials, but also to a dialogue with the general public through a sensorial museum project devoted to noble fibres which has opened in 2018 in Isle-sur-la-Sorgue.

"The raw materials await our skills to bring out their full beauty, and our actions thus shape the world."

Jean-Louis Brun, 8th generation

A NEVER-ENDING QUEST FOR THE GREATEST POSSIBLE SOFTNESS

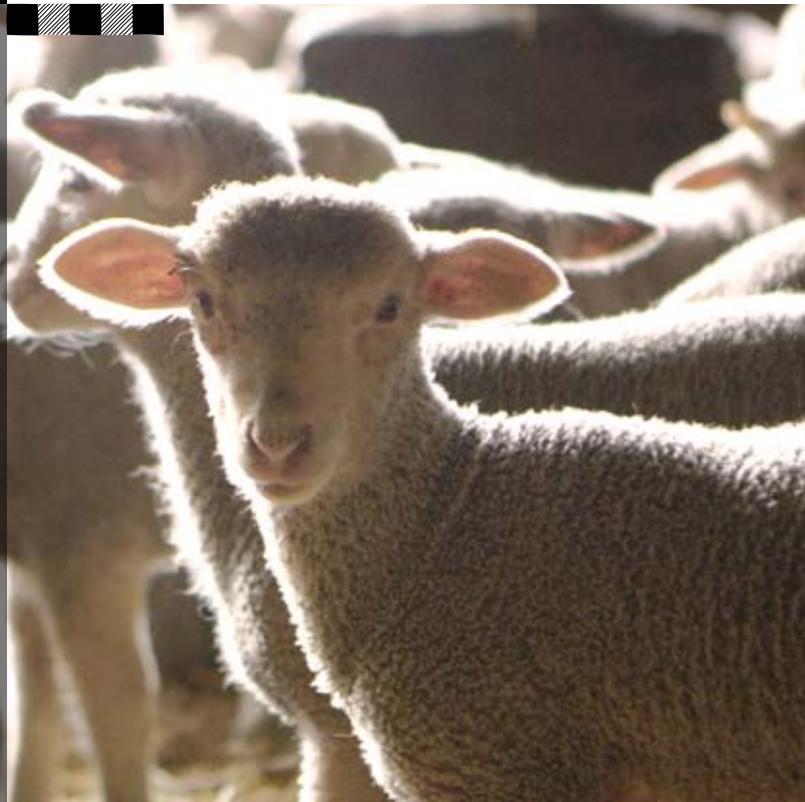

Mérinos d'Arles Antique® from the South of France, Mongolian baby camel from Khomyn Tal in the Gobi Desert... It takes years of partnerships to rediscover an outstanding type of wool and gain a thousandth of a millimetre in fibre fineness. This is the price willingly paid to enhance the softness and comfort of our final products even further. Merino, Mohair, Alpaca, Cashmere... Brun de Vian-Tiran is constantly seeking, engaged in a never-ending quest for the greatest material and immaterial softness.

EXCLUSIVITY

Mérinos d'Arles Antique®, a thirty year adventure with the shepherds

To enable French woollen mills to produce softer fabrics, Louis XVI had Spanish merinos imported in order to cross them with French sheep. The wonderful fineness thus obtained seemed unfortunately to have been lost due to further cross-breeding in the 1930s... until Pierre Brun, the 7th generation managing the family's Brun de Vian-Tiran factory, began his quest for the Mérinos d'Arles Antique® with the help of the wool merchant Claude Gutapfel.

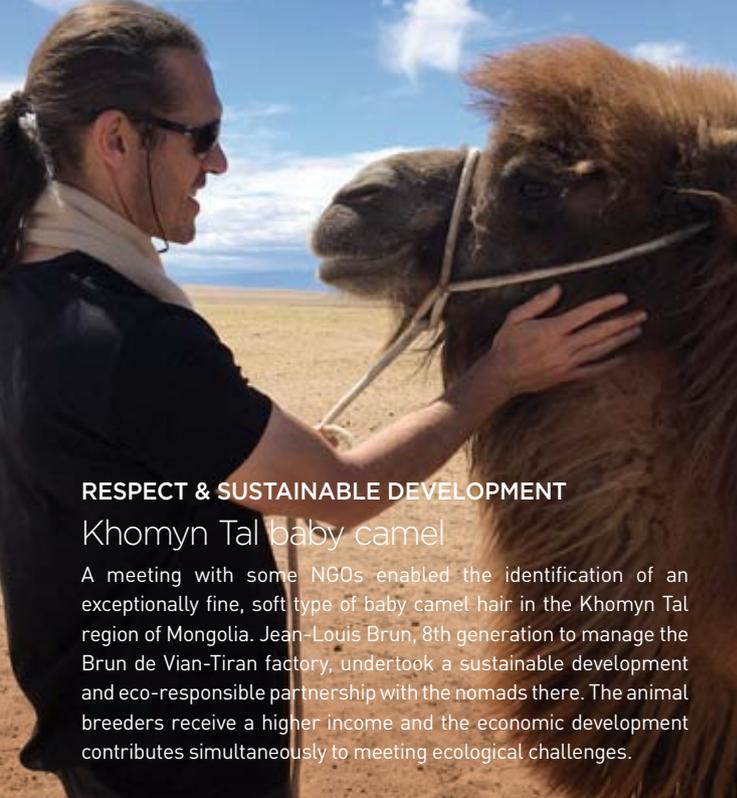

Seven years of research led to this legendary fineness being rediscovered in the flock belonging to the late André Eychennes. Thirty years later, the ewes and rams of the long-lost breed had, in contributing to the renewal of 15 sheep breeders' flocks, enabled herds totalling 25,000 animals to be raised. They produce the finest wool in Europe, exclusively for our factory. All the outstanding qualities of this very warm, soft wool are expressed in the factory's product ranges.

RESPECT & SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Khomyntal baby camel

A meeting with some NGOs enabled the identification of an exceptionally fine, soft type of baby camel hair in the Khomyntal region of Mongolia. Jean-Louis Brun, 8th generation to manage the Brun de Vian-Tiran factory, undertook a sustainable development and eco-responsible partnership with the nomads there. The animal breeders receive a higher income and the economic development contributes simultaneously to meeting ecological challenges.

INNOVATION

A very unique teasel

The natural teasel, stem of an inflorescence cultivated since ancient times, long enabled the soft fleeciness of fabrics to be lifted. When it disappeared as a crop in the 1990s, textile industries had to seek out other technical solutions. But Brun de Vian-Tiran remained faithful to the principle of the traditional teasel. Pierre Brun, 7th generation to manage the factory, led twenty years of research and development to create a biomimetic metal teasel, which reproduces the delicacy and efficiency of the natural teasel to give fabrics which are both soft and resistant.

CREATIONS INSPIRED BY NATURE

The world becomes more gentle with Brun de Vian-Tiran's creations, inspired by Nature and revealing all the softness it can offer. Beautiful raw materials - and Nature - respond so well when treated with respect! Our fabrics thus express the unique features and personalities of these noble fibres, preparing them to be part of the lives of equally unique people.

NATURAL FIBRES

The result of natural selection over millions of years, wool-type fibres have been created by Nature to envelop and protect many mammal species. Their unique ability to regulate humidity gives them outstanding properties which contribute to our well-being. The healthy microclimate they create makes them a thermal regulator as well as an excellent ally in the fight against allergies.

EXCELLENCE PARTNERSHIP

Brun de Vian-Tiran brings in young designers

For the last few years, Brun de Vian-Tiran has been involved in a partnership with the French National School of Industrial Creation (ENSCI) Textile Design Workshops, in Paris. This is an excellence partnership in which the Masters students, who have already graduated from the best art trades schools, contribute their creativity and their high level of technical know-how. Able to work with the constraints and the assets of our factory's production tools, the students design a collection-capsule each year which is selected and produced by Brun de Vian-Tiran.

"A partnership which is both inspirational and rigorous."

Marion Lévy, Director of ENSCI-Design Textile

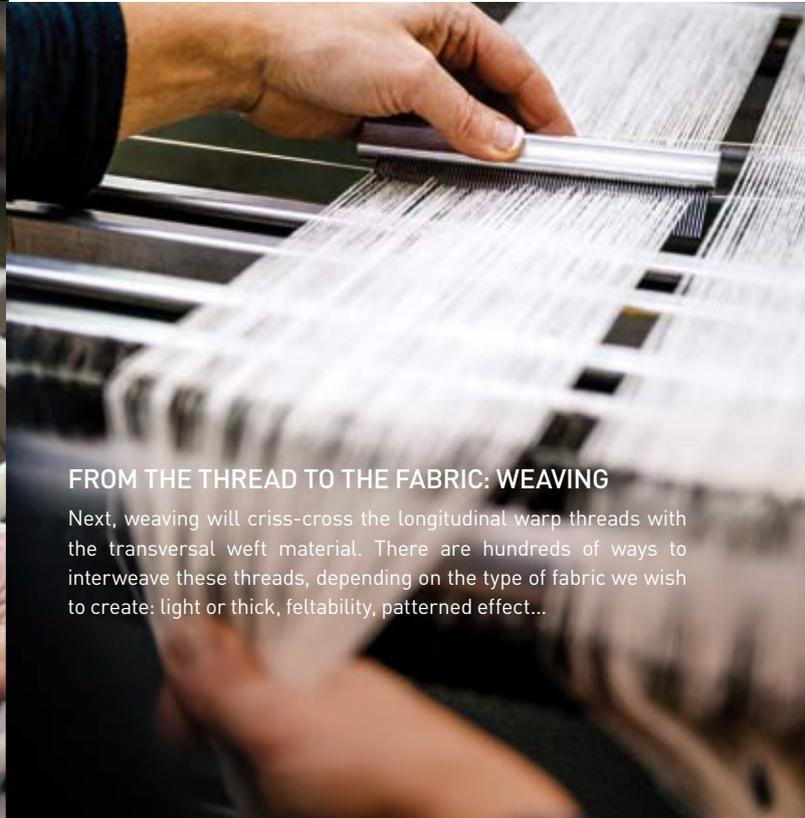

MEN AND WOMEN, HUMAN SKILLS

Our factory is an industry in which human intervention remains dominant. The Brun de Vian-Tiran factory relies on skills acquired during more than two centuries of experience working on highly complex products: prestige blankets, for which we are the leader in France. Our teams, artisans in noble fibres, know they can count on their skilled hands and eyes for each step in the process, and contribute extreme care to the quest for perfection. They can thus create fabrics destined to be totally soft and comfortable.

FROM THE FIBRE TO THE THREAD: SPINNING

The wools are sourced from the five continents, and arrive in our Isle-sur-la-Sorgue factory in bales. Here, our treasury of fibres in reserve can meet our needs for several years! The first step in their transformation is spinning: the fibres will be sorted and aligned by the carding machine, a complex mechanical process, to give a "sliver". This band of fibres will then be lengthened and twisted on the ring spinner to give a thread.

FROM THE THREAD TO THE FABRIC: WEAVING

Next, weaving will criss-cross the longitudinal warp threads with the transversal weft material. There are hundreds of ways to interweave these threads, depending on the type of fabric we wish to create: light or thick, feltability, patterned effect...

FROM THE FABRIC TO THE FINAL CLOTH: THE FINISHING

Fabric finishing basically consists in fulling - or felting - the fabric, then gently scratching it with teasels to raise the nap. Fulling was the original trade of Brun de Vian-Tiran in 1808, and has never stopped being a speciality of the factory. It is a little-known but essential step, and gives our cloths their extended longevity. The operation is still carried out using teasels: in certain cases natural teasels and in others metal teasels which are unique to Brun de Vian-Tiran, in order to bring out all the softness and character of the natural fibres while preserving the fabric.

FROM THE CLOTH TO YOU: THE FINAL PRODUCT

Finally, the cloth is cut and possibly edged, labelled and stored, ready to be delivered with no delays. The process will have taken fifteen steps altogether, requiring 3 weeks of work. For each of the steps carried out machines have always been at the service of human skills: constant attention and care, exercised by craftspeople with a wealth of experience gained during over 17 years of experience on average, the worthy heirs of a know-how passed down to eager apprentices for over two centuries.

LA FILAVENTURE SENSORY MUSEUM OF NOBLE FIBRES

In one wing of the Brun de Vian-Tiran factory, located in the charming town of Isle-sur-la-Sorgue, you will find the Brun de Vian-Tiran Filaventure: an hour and a half of sensorial immersion in a fascinating world where you can see, hear, touch... our quest for noble fibres on the five continents and beyond, creations inspired by nature, the fifteen steps of fibre transformation skillfully carried out by our teams, partnerships in design and in fibre selection... In a tour guided by the Filambule, a fantasy character, our fabrics tell their story here in Isle-sur-la-Sorgue.

Discover the wool-bearing animals which troop down from the mountain, heading for the Filaventure. Travel the world in a quest for the fines fibres it can provide. Zoom in on wools from the alpaca, the llama, or the cashmere goat under a microscope. Watch our factory teams at work, and listen to their stories. Work real machines yourself. Feel the fabric as it changes through the different steps of its transformation. Then when night comes, experience the softness nature can reveal by draping yourself in our fabrics... giving an extra touch of soul to your home and gently surrounding you every day.

For our younger visitors, have fun with a booklet and an investigation to carry out with Edgar, the little Brun de Vian-Tiran sheep.

Brun de Vian-Tiran
An eco-responsible,
benevolent local enterprise,
a timeless craft passing on values for the world of tomorrow

JOB SATISFACTION

A highly skilled French team with the manual and technical expertise to carry out the 15 steps necessary in manufacturing our creations. On average, our people have worked for Brun de Vian-Tiran for over 17 years, and for some there have been up to 5 generations of history with the firm.

CONFIDENCE THROUGHOUT THE SUPPLY CHAIN

Number one transformer of French wools in France, always ready to satisfy the most demanding of customers, Brun de Vian-Tiran has initiated a rebirth in the art of wool working.

ON-GOING SKILL TRANSFER

The more experienced pass on their know-how to our apprentices, to ensure the preservation of a craft which has become rare. A company culture with a long-term vision.

A LOCAL ENTERPRISE WELL ANCHORED IN ITS REGION

Brun de Vian-Tiran is a living witness to the origins of Isle-sur-la-Sorgue, born from the textile industry. With our Noble Fibre Sensorial Museum, the factory is contributing to the renown of our home town.

A CLOSE RELATIONSHIP WITH NATURE FOR EIGHT GENERATIONS

An exclusive choice of natural materials, a naturally ecological sheep breeding, manufacturing processes which respect the environment.

Une Entreprise du Patrimoine Vivant

Serving our customers for over two centuries

In 1808, during Napoleon's Empire, Charles Tiran and his son-in-law Laurent Vian started up a textile mill in the town of Isle-sur-la-Sorgue. Using water from the clear Sorgue River and clay extracted nearby, they manufactured wool felt with the traditional Camargue checkerboard pattern. Today, Brun de Vian-Tiran's checkerboard saddle blankets can still be seen on Camargue horses, and we continue to respect the environment and use water from the Sorgue as our factory transforms the most beautiful wools from all over the world. More than just an enterprise: a true ecosystem focussing on solidarity and sustainability, with animal breeders who collaborate in our quest for the greatest softness, be they in France or in Mongolia, through to France's design elite.

And you are part of that ecosystem. Our distributors know it well: as a French manufacturer, our first commitment is to an on-going relationship with our customers. Brun de Vian-Tiran textile creations can pass on from one generation to another, and thus transfer a timeless, unalterable link between our company and all those who have chosen to surround themselves with the softness we offer.

This is why we have confirmed our traditional commitment in our Guaranteed for Life* promise: whatever the purchase date of your Brun de Vian-Tiran article, if a manufacturing defect is found we undertake to repair or replace with an identical or equivalent creation if necessary. And as always, we will examine any article returned to us, and our master woolworkers will implement a solution if it is possible.

Being linked also means anticipating lifestyles and habits in a home. Designed based on the observation of social changes, Grand Plaid - the Great Throw - Brun de Vian-Tiran meets the need for a nomadic use, multi-purpose and free of standards or conventions. Beautiful large swathes of fabric surround you with softness, and in the message they carry add extra soul to your home. Always within reach on a sofa, a bed, a balustrade... your Grand Plaid adapts readily to your need and your mood, no scenario imposed and no pre-established codes. A new category is reserved for the Grands Plaids in this catalogue.

Lifestyle and fashion trend observations have also led to our creation of scalloped-edge versions for a whole range of blankets in wool, alpaca, and cashmere, as DUO - DUO comforter - where a duo of filling densities takes into account the fact that a couple can feel the cold differently. Finally, you will find Petit Nuage - Little Cloud - throw in very natural Merino shades, the Arles Collection created with the top French school of industrial design, and Mohair and Cashmere throws with irresistible new patterns.

Through a benevolent, responsible ecosystem, let's inspire a model for a softer world...

Mérinos d'Arles Antique® wool, rediscovered and developed by Brun de Vian-Tiran during thirty years of collaboration with local sheep breeders, is exclusive to our factory. It is the finest wool in Europe, but also one of the most crimped and puffy in the world. These qualities give it exceptional powers of temperature and humidity regulation, ensuring that your pillow guarantees healthy sleep and revived well-being, whatever the season. Choose between two levels of support firmness.

'LA 240'

Transhumance

100 % Mérinos d'Arles Antique® wool
350 g/m²

The traditional seasonal migration known as the "Transhumance", which our sheep flocks continue to follow, was the theme inspiring this collection: three stages passing through villages, old trails, and then wild high pastures, with a route from established fields back to nature. Six designs with an amazing wealth of finesse and harmony, with a careful balance of asymmetry, constantly revealing something new...

'La 240' is ready to surround you, protect you, unite or isolate... Nomadic in its concept, this blanket reminds us of its primary functions – something to accompany you, close to you and yet open-hearted, a familiar protector. It can even be cut into four baby blankets – just ask us for the variation you desire!

A partnership of Excellence enabled this capsule collection to come to life. First, the selection of the finest Merino wool in Europe. Then the colours and patterns were created by students from the Workshops of the ENSCI, the top French school of industrial design. Finally, the throws were made by the woolworker craftspeople in our factory.

ARLES

100 % Wool of Mérinos d'Arles Antique®
 330 g/m²
 140 x 180 cm

It took more than 30 years of collaboration with the Mérinos d'Arles Antique® sheep breeders to redevelop the finest wool in the northern hemisphere, a Brun de Vian-Tiran exclusivity. Add to that 10 years of partnership with the top French school of industrial creation, the Workshops of the ENSCI-Les Ateliers, for extraordinary capsule collections. All the excellence of the French wool industry is united here, from the sheep breeder to the designer, another demonstration of Brun de Vian-Tiran's role as a benevolent, responsible ecosystem, full of promise for the future.

The ENSCI students were inspired by the land around the ancient city of Arles, from the rugged Alpilles Hills to the sandy coastline of the Camargue. The region is the home to groves of olives and paddy fields of rice, alongside the precious safeguarded natural environment of the Crau Plain, the last European steppe, with its peacefully grazing sheep. Eight colours came together for the collection: Camargue bull black - "Taureau", river blue - "Rhône", salt-marsh pink - "Marais salant"... From these colours, four throws were created: "Olivier", "Graminée", "Aube", and "Embrun", made of pure swathes of fabric, with no additional finishings. They are also available as scarves.

The ultimate expression of the region and the know-how which have nourished Brun de Vian-Tiran for more than two centuries, and for which we proudly carry the banner.

Brun de Vian-Tiran has been developing its network of ethically-working suppliers for over 210 years. Today, our Factory is committed to supporting an NGO working in Mongolia for the preservation of the nomadic lifestyle and active in pushing back desertification. Discovered there, a selection of baby camels with outstandingly fine fleeces has enabled the production of this fluffy, soft, wonderfully cuddly throw. It will become your home companion and an invitation to dreams of distant destinations...

One-off individual items, resulting from deliberate dying "accidents": by tying strips of cotton around pieces of cloth, our dyers had fun creating these irregular striped effects. They make the bright colours of our shawls stand out even more – and ensure they are totally modern accessories.

COUSSINS DE SOL NOMADES

Made from the robust checked cloth which has long decorated the saddle blankets used on Camargue horses, a Brun de Vian-Tiran tradition which can be seen all over the Camargue plains. These resistant floor cushions, generously filled with firm puffy wool, let you settle down comfortably in your garden or a tempting country spot for a picnic, games, or just to enjoy a good book... A useful handle on the large models makes them easily carried, so just arrange them wherever suits you, inside or out.

Leather

A practical accessory for a lifestyle that is becoming ever more nomadic, the leather strap on our throws makes your trips more convenient and stylish. For this beautifully made object, the leather is selected with great care and its traditional tanning is exclusively vegetal. This supple leather is a robust material with a soft feel called "candle wax". The Brun de Vian-Tiran brand is branded onto the strap handle.

Sheep wool: wools from France and the Alps for their volume and warmth, wools from Australia for their softness...

Mérinos d'Arles Antique®: the finest wool in Europe, rediscovered by Brun de Vian-Tiran, exclusively ours and part of a sustainable ethical development programme with sheep breeders for nearly 30 years.

Silk: Brun de Vian-Tiran has selected Mulberry silk, from mulberry-fed silkworms, for our finely-woven shawls, or Tussah silk, more bulky and warmer, for our quilts.

Cotton: oh, so fine - cotton is perfect for our summer products, especially when coping with humidity.

Linen: elegant, with its typical crisp feel and its coolness so well adapted to the heat of summer. This is a very strong fibre and a natural thermo regulator.

Mohair goat: Louis Brun, sixth generation at Brun de Vian-Tiran, was the first on the European continent to create blankets and throws in Mohair. In doing so, he brought simple bed blankets into a world of lightness, softness, and aesthetic pleasure.

Yangir, the Himalayan ibex: incomparable fineness, in an elegant natural grey, with an outstanding, unforgettable feel.

Cashmere goat: the Cashmere goat's under-coat fibre is well known for its fineness and very special feel, called "soapy". Brun de Vian-Tiran distinguishes among different qualities of Cashmere depending on their origins, bringing out their best features in warm blankets or quilts, refined throws, light shawls...

Himalayan Yak: very soft hair, in natural shades of grey, cream, or brown, for throws and scarves.

Cashgora: a very rare cross-breed, with wool as shiny and white as mohair and as soft as Cashmere.

Alpaca, baby Alpaca and baby Llama from the Andes: long, soft hairs, in an amazing range of natural shades. Our Alpaca mainly comes from Peru, and the baby Llama from Bolivia.

Camel and baby camel: under its very thick, rough outer coat, the camel offers us a very fine fuzzy undercoat which is not only very soft and warm, but also strong. Brun de Vian-Tiran is working with NGOs in Mongolia for ethical, eco-responsible sustainable development.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR BRUN DE VIAN-TIRAN FABRIC

A Brun de Vian-Tiran textile creation can give you pleasure for years if you use it carefully and take simple precautions. To enjoy it as long as possible, here are a few recommendations.

Wool and wool-type fibres (alpaca, camel, cashmere...) do not attract dust and absorb very little fatty material, so they are very easy to take care of. Natural humidity regulators, they do not encourage the development of mites or bacteria: it has been recognized scientifically that they are a positive factor in the fight against allergies. Shaking the articles, airing them well and exposing bedding to the sun from time to time is enough for their regular care. Most of our products can be dry-cleaned, and some can be washed. Strictly respect the care codes which are noted on the labels.

Certain wool-type fibres, especially the finest of them, are naturally likely to pill. To protect the fabrics from this, they should not undergo excessive rubbing. We advise you not to use a throw on the seat of your sofa, and a sheet, duvet cover, or pillow case must protect blankets, comforters, pillows, or mattress toppers from direct contact with the sleeper.

A mohair blanket or throw can lose a few fibres when you start to use it. Simply brush it lightly with a clothes brush to remove the fibres which may tend to detach.

Protection against moths is essential. You will find suitable approved products on the market.

Feel free to contact us for advice on the use and care of our creations. If any difficulty or incident should arise, we will answer you as quickly as possible and will do our best to find a solution for you.

With these simple precautions, your Brun de Vian-Tiran article will continue to make the world softer for you as the years go by...
